2016 I'M A PRESERVATIONIST WINNERS

Jonathan Kemper, Joyce Holland, Marshall Miller, Linda Gill Taylor and Steve Taylor and in memoriam, Suzie Allen, join other business owners, neighborhood activists, environmentalists, history buffs and urban dwellers passionate about sustainability, economic development, urban revitalization and community vitality.

Historic Kansas City, greater Kansas City's only nonprofit organization dedicated to preservation of the area's heritage, neighborhoods and historic built environment, recently announced the 2016 "I'm A Preservationist Class." Joan Adam, president of the Historic Kansas City Board, introduced Jonathan Kemper, Joyce Holland, Marshall Miller, Linda Gill Taylor and Steve Taylor, individuals who are committed to and have made and continue to make significant contributions to the organization's mission, at the organization's fundraiser earlier this month.

"Each year, some 300 buildings are torn down in Kansas City that have some historical relevance to our unique story," Adam says. "We're proud to have dedicated preservationists like Jonathan, Joyce, Marshall, Linda and Steve working tirelessly to save some of our most amazing architectural structures. One of the unique distinctions of the 'I'm A Preservation' program is that it's not specific to professionals who are saving architecturally significant buildings—it can be anyone."

Suzie Allen, who passed away in October, was named to the 2016 Class in memoriam for her community leadership and connection to the Country Club Plaza throughout the years, helping set a standard for preservation and preservationists everywhere.
"Suzie's personal and financial support for Save the Plaza and countless other efforts to support preservation in Kansas City, including Historic Kansas City, has made an immeasurable difference to our city," Adam says.

For generations, Kansas City has been home to a thriving landscape of neighborhood bars, restaurants and cafes that play an essential role in our sense of place and community. "Legacy Bars and Restaurants” is an educational and community building initiative that invites users to experience the history of some of Kansas City’s most legendary eateries, watering holes, dives, and haunts to celebrate the iconic establishments that contribute to the culture and character of Kansas City.
$20,000 NEA GRANT

Congratulations! HKC was awarded $20,000 from the National Endowment for the Arts to support the creation and implementation of design guidelines for the 18th and Vine Historic District. 18th and Vine is an important nexus of commercial and entertainment activity, it is also a nationally significant cultural resource for its association with the unique African-American experience in Kansas City and for being the birthplace of the innovative style of jazz that emerged during the 1920s and 30s. The District is on the National and KC Register of Historic Places and a National Historic Landmark is in the District; originally known as the African American Musicians’ Union Local 627. There is a need for targeted guidelines to this neighborhood to encourage compatible, appropriate new development, as well as to protect existing historic resources.
